A dynamic, team-first playmaker, Abdul Janneh’s reliability shines through 12 career touchdowns and an average of 15.6 to 20.3 yards per reception. He combines his elite blocking ability as the top-ranked Power 4 wide receiver blocker with his explosive special teams impact, earning Georgia Tech’s 2024 Special Teams Player of the Year. Janneh has competed in 45 collegiate games, having transitioned from a standout career at Duquesne to a leadership role at Georgia Tech.

Recognized as a two-time game captain, he is respected for his vocal leadership and relentless work ethic. His frame and versatility, showcased through wide receiver and defensive back drills at Georgia Tech’s Pro Day, align with current NFL schemes. A selfless athlete with adaptability across roles, Janneh’s physicality and deep-threat potential make him a high-upside developmental prospect. His athletic prowess and intangibles position him as a valuable late-round or undrafted free-agent target. Abdul Janneh Jr. embodies perseverance, offering teams a disciplined, high-character asset with the tools to thrive at the next level.
